

Welcome to Woonsocket and the home of the Hachiko monument!

You are now at the historic Woonsocket Train Depot where much of the Richard Gere movie "Hachi: A Dog's Tale" was filmed in 2009.

You can visit more movie locations which are all nearby with this self-guided walking tour that can be completed in as little as an hour.

Find The Hachi Trail on Facebook and post your pictures!

- A: Hachiko statue - Depot Square.
- B: Train tracks - Railroad Street.
- C: Stationary train cars (under which Hachi sleeps) - Railroad Street.
- D: Andy and Michael's home, and road where Hachi runs away - corner of Oakley and Glen Road
- E: Railway Bridge under which Hachi walks – corner of Blackstone and Arnold Street
- F: Street where Hachi is shown walking – Arnold Street
- G: Milton and Myra's butcher shop – Arnold Street
- H: Downtown (where Parker walks taking puppy home; also where 10+ year old Hachi is first seen) - Main Street
- I: Back to Hachiko statue – One Depot Square

Visit hachikousa.com for more information, including links to the map, movie trailer, and more.

For more information on the area, please visit TourBlackstone.com and BlackstoneHeritageCorridor.org.

Blackstone Heritage Corridor, Inc.

One Depot Square, Woonsocket, RI · 401.765.2211

